

REQUIREMENTS FOR BECOMING A CERTIFIED INTUITIVE EATING COUNSELOR OR LAY FACILITATOR

This document describes the two types of certification for helping people become Intuitive Eaters, followed by the requirements and fees to become certified. (Effective July 10, 2020).

Background. Intuitive Eating is an evidenced-based model, pioneered by Registered Dietitian Nutritionists, Evelyn Tribole and Elyse Resch in 1995 and has been followed up with revised and updated editions of the written book, as well as audio books, The Intuitive Eating Workbook, 2017 and The Intuitive Eating Workbook for Teens, 2019. They are eager to spread the message of Intuitive Eating to help people make peace with food and create a healthy relationship with eating, mind, and body. They get numerous requests from around the world from people who want to work with local health professionals and/or support groups. Therefore, they created a standardized training and certification process to help assure a consistent message that promotes the intention and the integrity of the Intuitive Eating process.

CERTIFICATION TYPES

There are two certification categories—one for allied health professionals, Certified Intuitive Eating Counselor and one for non-health professionals, Certified Intuitive Eating Lay Facilitator.

To see if you qualify to be a Certified Intuitive Eating Counselor or Lay Facilitator please apply here Application

1. Certified Intuitive Eating Counselor

Allied health professionals include professions that require extensive training and knowledge, including: possess a bachelor's degree or higher and credentialing or licensing in a health-related field. See the Appendix for List of Professionals Who Qualify to Become Certified Intuitive Eating Counselors, on page 5.

2. Certified Intuitive Eating Lay Facilitator.

Intuitive Eating Facilitators are distinguished from Intuitive Eating Counselors in that they are not health professionals. The authors have been inundated with requests from lay people whose work or community provides the opportunity to influence others to change their relationship with food through Intuitive Eating. Although these fields of work are not traditionally classified as health professions and may not be licensed or credentialed in this way, they do allow for the dissemination of appropriate information. There is no end to the amount of misinformed and often destructive information that exists about how to eat. They will be capable of teaching Intuitive Eating principles but will not have the depth of knowledge in the health arenas that the Counselors have. Examples that fit into the Lay Facilitator category include: Clergy, Student Peer Counselors, “Mom” groups, Support Group Leaders (OA, church, or community support groups), Writers, Addiction counselors, Birthing coaches, among others.

SCOPE OF PRACTICE CONCERNING CERTIFIED INTUITIVE EATING COUNSELORS AND LAY FACILITATORS

There are many different health professions represented among Certified Intuitive Eating Counselors. Therefore, prospective clients can expect to be guided through the lens of the particular profession of the person with whom they choose to work.

Each counselor abides by the scope of practice guidelines laid out for their profession. For example, a counselor who is also trained as a psychotherapist, will offer psychotherapy, in addition to Intuitive Eating counseling, or a Registered Dietitian Nutritionist, is qualified to provide medical nutrition therapy, in addition to Intuitive Eating counseling. This concept will follow for each of the health professions represented.

A Certified Intuitive Eating Lay Facilitator, will have met the training standards laid forth in the guidelines for this category. But a Lay Facilitator will not have the same skill set or education of a counselor in a health profession that is represented in the Certified Intuitive Eating Counselor's category. Lay Facilitators are trained lay people, who can facilitate support groups, self-help groups, and individuals in the basics of the Intuitive Eating process. If, however, a client has a health condition, eating disorder, or other special condition, it would be beyond the scope of a lay facilitator to work with this client. Therefore, a lay facilitator would be expected to refer this type of client to an appropriate health professional.

Benefits of Becoming Certified

Upon completion of the certification requirements you will receive the following:

1. Membership in the closed Facebook group--Certified Intuitive Eating Counselors (free).
2. Directory Listing in the Intuitive Eating Counselors/Facilitators Directory on www.IntuitiveEating.org website. This directory is also mentioned in the Resource section in the fourth edition of Intuitive Eating and in The Intuitive Eating Workbook.
3. Licensed Use of the Logo (for Certified Counselors, only). You will be able to use our logo, "Trained & Certified by the Original Intuitive Eating Pros." There is no fee for using our logo, but you will need to maintain supervision hours, which involves three sessions every five years. The ability to use our logo will be renewed every five years upon completion of these three further sessions of supervision with either Evelyn or Elyse or both.
